

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

"Neighbors Will Pull THEIRS Down..."

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I moved to this community a few months ago. We rented an apartment in a very fashionable section of town. We couldn't get a choice apartment so we took one in the court which faces a triangle of other apartments. In other words we face about 55 windows.

My wife is a lovely person but she grew up on a farm where they had no neighbors for miles around. She isn't accustomed to window shades and she can't seem to remember to pull them down. I've reminded her dozens of times but it doesn't help.

My wife weighs about 180 pounds and she's trying to reduce. She does her exercises every evening (with very little on) right by the windows, so she can benefit from the fresh air.

Any suggestions you may have will be appreciated. — W.L.C.

Dear W.L.C.: Don't worry about a wife who weighs 180 pounds and exercises near the windows "with very little on." If she doesn't pull her shades down, the neighbors will pull THEIRS down.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my husband and I had dinner at his parents' home and I got the shock of my life.

After dinner my father-in-law (who is quite affectionate) put his arm around me and gave me a peck on the cheek. Two seconds later my mother-in-law motioned me into the other room. I could see she was upset. Her words hit me like a ton of cement: "You've been flirting with my husband for as long as I can remember and I want you to know that I am aware of it."

I could not reply. I just stood there. A few moments later I said I had a headache and we left. I have not told my husband about this because I'm afraid he'd read his mother off once and for all. She's high-strung and insecure and she feels inferior to her husband because he's younger than she is and far more attractive. What shall I do? — K. L.

Dear K. L.: Tell your husband about the incident at once. If his mother has these notions, she will probably mention it to him sooner or later. He should know why you wish to cut down your visits with your in-laws.

The woman obviously is ill and from your remarks it is apparent that you have good insight into her problems. Explain the incident to your husband in a way that will trigger compassion and not bitterness.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been keeping steady company with a man who is one of the finest people I have ever known. Dennis is a widower. I lost my husband three years ago.

I'm very fond of this man but one thing about him bothers me. He has so many fine qualities that perhaps I would be a fool to say something and risk spoiling a relationship. I've decided to take your advice.

Dennis has several teeth missing. He is a good-looking man except for his smile and it's a shame he doesn't do something about it.

Yes or no? — ADELLE

Dear Adelle: Yes! by all means. More than his smile is involved. Missing teeth can be harmful to one's general health. Urge him to see a dentist at once. He'll probably be flattered at your interest rather than offended.

Confidential to GREEN

CHEESE: So he doesn't know you're married? How mysterious can you get? I'll bet the other half of the story is equally mysterious and that HE has a wife!

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them her in care of this newspaper using a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bryson-Horvath Nuptials

Read at Nativity Church

In a high noon ceremony on Saturday, Feb. 17, at Nativity Catholic Church, Miss Phyllis Ann Bryson, daughter of Mrs. William L. Bryson, 1816 Cabrillo Ave., and the late Mr. Bryson plighted her marriage promises with Francis Joseph Horvath. Mrs. Ida Horvath of Gerald, Ohio, and Mr. Joseph Horvath of Anaheim are parents of the bridegroom.

As the 150 wedding guests assembled Mrs. Neil McConlogue, organist, played nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Diane Buzan who sang "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. Carl Bryson escorted his niece to the altar. She wore a gown of white Chantilly lace fashioned with a scoop neckline and a skirt of three tiers of ruffles. A pearl and sequin tiara held the illusion veil and the bride carried a white prayer book topped with a bouquet of roses, orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Betty Lisoni was the honor attendant and bridesmaids were Misses Linda De Loy, Linda Belles and Alice Navarro. All wore red taffeta sheaths with bouffant overskirts and each carried the red and white bouquets.

Louie Lisoni was best man and Vance Tracy, Jerry Plante and Jack Joyce were ushers.

The Rev. Thomas Glynn officiated at the marriage and a reception followed at the Nativity parish hall. Mrs. Shirley Green was in charge of the bride's book.

The newly married couple spent a honeymoon at Santa Barbara. Their new address is 1141 Wilmington Blvd., Wilmington.

Here for the wedding were the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Donna Kovacs of Youngstown, O., and his aunt, Mrs. Jean Thomas of Campbell, O.

The bride was graduated from Torrance High school and her husband from Anaheim High school.

Joy Pearman Exchanges Vows with Lee G. Graber

Sanctuary of the First Christian Church was decorated with trumpet baskets filled with white gladioli and stock for the candlelight wedding ceremony uniting Miss Joy Marlene Pearman and Lee Gordan Graber at 2 o'clock on Saturday, Feb. 17. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn T. Pearman, 2122 Martina Ave. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Graber of West Berne, Ind.

The bridal path was marked with white satin bows tied to the pews. Mr. Pearman escorted his daughter to the altar. She wore a traditional gown of Alencon lace and tulle detailed with a Sabrina neckline, fitted torso, and long pointed sleeves. The floor length skirt had tiers of ruffles as a back interest. A Cinderella crown of pearls held the illusion veil and the bride carried butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. David Hagthorpe was the matron of honor. She wore an apricot sheath with a puffed overskirt and carried a heart-shaped bouquet of apricot carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Carlene Isner, Mrs. James Jewett and Mrs. William Trew. All wore aqua sheaths with overskirts. Their bouquets were of aqua carnations.

Candlelighters were Patti and Carol Lynch and Leona Scheibeler was the flower girl. They were also dressed in blue. Gregory Chambers carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

James Lee Scheibeler was best man and Charles Oates, Raymond Silagy and James Bell were ushers.

Rev. Leonard Babcock officiated at the marriage and Mrs. Eleanor Haynes played the nuptial music. Susan McDougall was soloist.

A reception was held in Friendship Hall at the church. In charge of the guest book and gift table were Iris Scheibeler and Mrs. Beverly Chambers.

The newlyweds spent a honeymoon in Carmel and San Francisco. They are now at home at 2736 Apt. A, Arlington Ave.

The bride was graduated from Torrance High School in 1955. She attended El Camino for two years and is employed in the claims department of Farmers Insurance Co.

Her husband received his early education in Indiana. He attended El Camino College and is an employee of the Torrance Police Dept.
